Bus Route Plan Unveiled

A new map showing tentative bus routes of the proposed San Mateo County Transit District were made public Wednesday at a meeting of the county's Local Bus Transit Study citizens advi- Francisco. sory committee in San Mateo.

The routes cover most of the major traffic arteries of the county and would form the skeletons of several new city transit systems, many to go into operation later this year. The maps may be seen soon at city halls and libraries, it was indicated.

R. Louis Salaber, consulting engineer for the study. presented the map and detailed route descriptions.

Backbone of the service. as expected, would be local service on "route one" the length of El Camino Real through the county. This line is expected to carry the most

Other main routes include express service on Bayshore and Junipero Serra freeways and part express, part local on Cabrillo Highway south to Half Moon Bay

Most North County service would radiate from the Daly City BART station, which commuters the fastest ser- tion vice into downtown San

The major east-west boulevards of Bayside cities and a loop route around Pacifica also are included.

One committee questioner asked why there was no cross-Peninsula service between Belmont and Half Moon Bay on the map. There is such a line listed in the route descriptions, but Salaber said officials of the Coastside area "didn't encourage it" because it was thought there wouldn't be that much traffic.

There also is no route on Sharp Park Road in Pacifica. Salaber anawered to another question, because 'it's too narrow and too steep for a bus.

The map now will go to city staffs for evaulation and then to the county's Metropolitan Transportation Commission board of control for Many of them, he said, lay nurturing a hatred for the children that they feel have deserted them, or placed them in the convalescent hospital against their wills.

'I have counseled with many, trying to turn this resentment to love," he said. The Foundation for Humanity, which he founded in 1963, has established an agency called "The Heart-Warmers." The group recruits volunteers of all ages and walks of life to pay regular visits to aged persons who would otherwise have no one to talk to

SOMETIMES, it takes one kind of a visitor to relate to the aged person, sometimes another kind, Mitchell said.

A man might want another man to talk to, since more women than men are in resthomes. A woman might long to talk to a youthful visitor.

Once a relationship is established, the visitor also might send cards or an occa-

Chaplain Mitchell said the relationship worked the other direction as well recently. A visitor was unable to visit one week because of a minor illness, and received get-well cards from his friends in the rest home.

Reverend Mitchell is called often to counsel when a patient is depressed because of a feeling of neg-lect by relatives. He has visited homes of relatives, as well as the patients themselves and has effected reconciliations in many cases. Most of such situations were caused by simple misunderstandings, he said.

THE HEART-WARMERS were originated in October 1972. The group started at two hospitals on a trial basis last May.

We hope to be able to add one more hospital each month." he said.

Last October, a dozen men from the San Mateo Kiwanis Club, to which the chaplain interest in taking part in the program. He is now trying to widen the base, from other Rotary and Lions, and from School, spoke for the group. individual volunteers.

this November's elections?

Watergate, of course, is central to the problem of impeachment and resignation. Those leading the pack in pursuit of the President understand that panic inside the Republican party will reduce the President's chances for survival, and have long been stirring a clamor that Republicans are doomed by Watergate. That many of the pack leaders are of the media has doubtless contributed to the emphasis on Watergate in public post mortems of recent cam-

Republicans did so well.

1974, however, has gone the other way. Except for the sweeping victory of Bob Lagomarsino in Ventura and Santa Barbara Counties. Republicans across the land have suffered serious reverses. Jerry Lewis, an attractive candidate, was defeated in a California State Senatorial district he should have carried. The Grand Rapids race for Vice Presiweek's Ohio Congressional election should have been won by Republicans.

Why has the chemistry changed? Why could Republicans win in 1973 and not in early 1974? The answers to, these questions are complex. and a careful breakdown of hundreds of influential factors in each election would have to be studied to warrant

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks. Come next Sunday we'll all be wearing a bit of the Green won't we? On Saint Patrick's Day everyone is Irish, if not by heritage than by choice.

The O'Norton's will celebrate the day with a bit of corned beef and cabbage, Sweepstakes Bread and grand, grand dessert . . . Irish Trifle. This delicacy combines dessert and an after dinner drink in one dish.

IRISH TRIFLE

- 2 layers stale sponge cake
- 1 jar raspberry jam, 10 ounces
- 1/4 cup Irish wiskey
- 1/2 cup sherry wine
- 1 package vanilla pudding
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 pint whipping cream
- 1 egg white 2 Tablespoons sugar

1/2 cup blanched almonds, sauteed in one tablespoon butter Using a sharp knife, and cutting carefully, split the two layers stale sponge cake in half, making four layers. Spread each layer with raspberry jam, using the 10 ounces. Relayer the cake in a large glass serving dish with sides. Combine the fourth cup Irish whiskey and half cup sherry wine and pour over the cake. Cover lightly and allow to stand for an hour or two. Meantime saute the half cup blanched almonds in the tablespoon butter over a low flame. (This is a bit of added work, but the flavor it adds is well worth the effort.) Set aside.

Prepare the package of vanilla pudding as directed, using two cups milk. Pour it over the cake while still hot. Cover the bowl and place in refrigerator to chill.

Whip the half pint cream and add one tablespoon sugar. Beat the egg white until stiff, add the remaining tablespoon

Stand the almonds on end in spikes on top of the whipped cream.

NOTE: If you have Irish whiskey, grand. If not, use bourbon, it works fine. The leprechauns will forgive you. This trifle serves 8 generously.

No corned beef and cabbage dinner is complete without Irish soda bread.

SWEEPSTAKES BREAD

- 34 cup raisins
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 12 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup butter
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds

1 cup sour milk

Rince and drain the three-fourths cup raisins. Sift together two cups flour, one tablespoon sugar, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon soda and one teaspoon salt. Cut in the one-third cup butter with knives or a pastry blender until mixture resembles a coarse corn meal. Stir in the raisins and the one teaspoon caraway

Beat the egg slightly and add to one cup sour milk. Make a well in the center of flour mixture and pour all the liquid in at once. Stir with a fork until flour is moistened. Don't overmix. Turn into a greased 8-inch round pan. Bake in 400-degree oven for 20 minutes. Cut into wedges, serve open to the public. hot with butter. Makes 8 wedges.

NOTE: The amount of milk called for in last week's recipe for Sherry-Apple Cake is one-third (1?3) cup.

THE MICHAEL MELONIS (Marcia Maycox)

Maycox-Meloni

All Souls Catholic Church was the setting for the marriage of Marcia Maycox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith C. Markegard of Billings, Mont., and Michael Meloni, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julio P. Meloni of South San Francisco.

The newlyweds greeted guests after the rites at a reception at the Elks Club in South San Francisco. Later, they departed for a honeymoon in San Diego before establishing a home in Burlingame.

The bride said her vows in an eggshell floor length gown with lace and pearls on the bodice and train. Members of her bridal party wore wine colored floor length dresses with eggshell lace bib bodices.

Marleen Maycox was the maid of honor, and secondary attendants included Sandra Cardinale and Mrs. Eugenia Hovland.

Dennis Meloni stood with Michael as best man.

Panelli-Del Grande

South Lake Tahoe was the honeymoon destination of Dennis Del Grande and his bride, the former Christine Susan Panelli, who are now making their first home in Daly City.

The couple exchanged vows at Stes. Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco. A reception followed at A. Sabella's on Fisherman's Wharf.

The new matron is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vince Panelli of Daly City and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oreste Del Grande of South San Fran-

Q.F.I.

A recent survey found "Good Health Habits" aid life. People of all ages can follow a few simple health habits and the chances of living a healthy life are greatly increased. even for the poor. These habits may sound silly — old things like avoiding between meal snacks and sleeping eight hours a night — but the statistics compiled by Dr. Lester Breslow's research appear to be very convincing. Dr. Breslow is the dean of the UCLA School of Public Health.

Many people will be pleased to know it is not necessary to give up drinking. In fact up to four drinks a day does not seem to affect the average person's health adversely.

Breslow and his staff surveyed about 7,000 Californians and followed their habits for 51/2 years.

The research identified the following seven good health habits: (1) Eight hours sleep each night. (2) Eat breakfast every morning. (3) No snacks. (4) Maintain weight within limits. (5) No smoking. (6) Moderate alcohol consumption. (7) Moderate exercise. Breslow stated these findings reflect "likelihood" of good health, not "certainty.

Interestingly, the study showed no relationship between overweight and mortality in men until 20 per cent or more overweight is evident. The lowest death rate for men was in weight groups from 5 per cent to 19 per cent overweight. In fact, moderate drinkers had the most favorable mortality rate yet this is because non-drinkers included some who had to guit due to ill health.

Breslow said. "It now appears that within certain biological limits each individual can determine his own risk

WILL IT DO ANY good for a middle-aged or disad- IT DO ANY good for a middle-aged or disadvantaged poor person to take up good habits at this stage of their lives? This question is difficult to answer but the assumption is that people who adopt good health practices at any age will improve their chances for good health. Statistically this is established for cigarette smoking. For people who stop cigarette smoking there is a significant improvement in mortality from coronary heart disease and after 10 years the risk of lung cancer is the same as for non-smokers. Therefore, it is difficult to convince young people of the importance of good health habits. After 45 the impact becomes apparent according to the findings.

Un estudio reciente ha descubierto que "Buenas Costumbres de Salud" ayudan a la vida. Personas de todas edades que siguen algunas costumbres sencillas aumentan sus chances de vivir una vida saludable, hasta esas personas pobres. Estas costumbres pueda que suenen tontas cosas vieias como evitar comer bocados entre las comidas y dormir 8 horas diaras — pero las estadisticas acumuladas por el estudio conducido por el Dr. Lester Breslow parecen tener valor. El do El Dr. Breslow es el President de la Escuela de Salubridad Publica de U.C.L.A.

A muchas personas les agradara saber que no es necesario dejar de tomor. Pues, hasta cuatro tragos as dia no parecen afectar la salud de una persona comun y

El Dr. Breslow v sus ayudantes estudiaron a 7,000 residentes de California y les siguieron sus habitos de salud por cinco anos y medio.

El estudio descrubrio las siguientes siete buenas costumbres de salud: 1) dormir ocho horas al dia. 2) Comer desayuno todas las mananas. 3) dejar de comer bocaditos entre las comidas. 4) Mantener su peso adecuado. 5) No fumar. 6) Tomar sin exceso. 7) Ejercicio moderado. El Dr. Breslow nos dice que estos descubrimientos indican lo que puede sucedern no certeza

Con mas interes, el estudo no indico ninguna relacion entre hombres gordos y aumento en mortaljidad hasta que el 20 per cente de sobrepeso era evidente. La proporcion menor de mortalidad en hombres se descubria en esos grupos que solo tenian de 5 per cente a 19 per cente de sobrepeso. Para decir la verdad, gente que tomaba con moderacion tenia la proporcion mas favorable de mortali dad pero esto era porque el grupo de aquells que no tomaban incluia algunas personas qu que tuvieron que dejar

VALE LA PENA empezar a observar buenos costumbres de salud si uno es pobre o ya pasado de los cuarenta? Esta es una pregunta dificil, pero es logico que personas que practican buenos costumbres de salud a cualquier edad mejoran sus chances de mantener su salud.

Samuel Chandler

On Bud Lycett

It has been remarked, ever since Adlai Stevenson pointed it out, that government cannot be stronger or more tough-minded that its people nor wiser than the leaders chosen by the people.

Bud Lycett has been a tough-minded and wise leader He has been one of the most useful councilmen in Daly City's history, always insisting upon a thorough explanation of a proposition before casting his vote, for or against.

This statement will embarrass Bud who is a modest man. Yet it must be said. As a Councilman he worked with the skill of a dozen Irishmen. He asked questions that hit at the heart of a matter. He was seldom vague, always forthright. Sometimes he was funny, sometimes capricious, and we shall miss his twinkling eyes and his casual jabs. which set us laughing even though we knew that they came from a head full of good sense and dedication to the business at hand

Let us hope we have learned from Bud that local government requires original thinking and sometimes the assumption of unpopular approaches to the issues that

With Bud's retirement from the City Council an era reaches a climax. It was the age of men who left an indelible mark on Daly City: Frank Pacelli, Joe Verducci, Mickey De Bernardi, Eddie Dennis, Bob St. Clair, Del Wilson, Stanford Vickers, and there are others.

Theirs was the age of the builders. During its course Daly City passed from a village status to that of a growing pulsating city. It was an era that demanded dynamic thought and actions that were calculated to mold the various parts of the City into a political unity. It was a period that brought forth the men and women who now serve: Paul Hupf, Anthony Giammona, MacRobert Stewart, Victor Kyriakis, Bill Schumacher, Anna Ohlendorf, Al Polonsky, Lou Papan among them.

IT WAS AN AGE that created the present and gave direction to the future. Because of it Daly City stands in a position described by Carey McWilliams with these words: Rarely has history provided such a happy confluence of a great ideal - the extension of democracy (on the local level as well as the national.) If we fail to measure up to the potentialities of this unprecedented opportunity our failure will be so great as to defy measurement or appraisal. Now, assuredly the time has come.

Daly City stands at the door of a great era of city wide improvement. We cannot enter it until we cease thinking of one section or group opposed to another. Old Daly City and Westlake are one: Bayshore, Serramonte, St. Francis Heights, Hillside are parts of the whole.

There is but one Daly City, not four or three or two. The development or redevelopment of this section or that is the concern of the whole city. A flood in Garden Valley is the concern of St. Francis Heights. Serramonte is the concern of Bayshore and Bayshore of Westlake and Westlake of Old Daly City. The movement of people has placed in Daly City men they must become cohesive with no thought of superior of inferior races or cultural backgrounds. In this city we must be one people, all equal, all making a contribution to the government of our city. We cannot retreat; the age of builders made that impossible. Its leaders took the initiative and passed it to and women of many races and many backgrounds. Here

us. Let us carry it with the spirit we got from Bud Lycett and other men his era represents.

We know there are many things yet to be done, but we have accomplished much in the recent past. We share the optimism of many. We will move ahead and Daly City will prosper and take its rightful place among the leading cities of California." - Peter J. Markovitch.

"Residential Service" Hyatt Luxury Theme

Hyatt on Union Square, in San Francisco, offers two outstanding dining rooms, the Plaza restaurant (specializing in seafood from around the world), which is glassed on two sides and overlooks Union Square and the plaza area, and the One Up on the 35th floor, where patrons are offered spectacular views of the city and the entire Bay Area. Specializing in steaks, the One Up restaurant is keynoted by elegance, down to the fine gold flatware and cut crystal stemware. Cocktail lounges include the Napper Tandy's, the One Up Lounge and the Inoui (the latter two on the 35th floor). In keeping with the luxury theme, the Hyatt on Union Square offers an unusual innovation on its penthouse floor — a staff to provide "residential service" including a butler, a bar completely set up for drinks, snacks on hand. breakfast service, etc. It all comes complete with special penthouse chinaware, of course. An outstanding innovation for the hotel is its commissioning of a major work of art to highlight the plaza area. Popular Ed Sullivan, who some years back was manager of the Burlingame Hyatt House, is general manager of this new luxury hotel in the center of downtown San Francisco.

Also ask about their "Drive-up Package to South Lake Tahoe." Available seven days a week. Overnighters, via Greyhound Bus, are bonus attractions offering accommodations in a deluxe motel (per person, double occupancy) . . . side dining at Nick's, The Moonraker and Captain Charles is "where it's at." All three restaurants are located on a stretch of beach at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica, and offer vista views from every table in the dining rooms and lounges. The way of life with this three-way restaurant combination is good music, fun and menu variety (seafood being a specialty). It's an easy drive from the Peninsula to all this scenic beauty and tasteful luxury

Belmont Holiday Inn Has Coupon Program

Joe De Dio, general manager of the Holiday Inn, in Belmont, doesn't believe in inflation. Instead, he prefers to practically give food away. His current dinner offer, which is in the form of a coupon (see today's Bright Lights), is two Beef Kabobs for $5.95. Just clip the coupon and present it at the Holiday Inn prior to March 24 . . . There's plenty of dance action down at Whiskey Hill on Wednesday nights. It's Dance Contest Night and Club Owner Pete Brallier presents cash prizes to the winning participants. Playing the music nightly, Tuesdays through Saturdays, is Mickey Frizzell . . . For great pizzas, suggest you try Romano's Italian restaurant, located in Pacifica's picturesque Rockaway Beach. Small, medium or large, Enrico Romano knows how to prepare them the way you like 'em. Also something special here: Baked Stuffed Lasagne. Manicotti (large macaroni stuffed with saute meat and Italiano seasoning) is another special you should try . . . Ethnic entertainment in the form of belly dancing is a fascinating attraction at the Grapeleaf in Burlingame. Another attraction is the Lebanese cuisine, which Gabrile Michael is quick to point out is different from Greek cuisine because of its all-spices.

Quarter Horse Racing Now at Bay Meadows

An 11-week season of Quarter Horse Racing is now under way at Bay Meadows, featuring the swiftest of all race horses, ridden by the top short line jockeys in the business. Racing will be conducted Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights commencing at 7:45 p.m. and Sunday and Monday afternoons at 1:30 p.m. A $2 Exacta will be sold on the first race, with $5 Exactas on the fifth, seventh and ninth events. While prices are going up on almost everything, every day will be "bargain day" at Bay Meadows, with a single admission cost of just $1.50 to the entire plant. Both the grandstand and Turf Club areas will be open, with dining facilities available to all. During the recent Harness meeting, admission to the Grandstand was $2 and to the Turf Club $4. In addition, Sunday will be Senior Citizens' Day, while Thursday has been designated as "Ladies Night." For each of these occasions, the admission for those eligible will be just 50 cents. The season will run through Saturday, May 19, at the West's busiest race track, Bay Meadows in San Mateo.

EMPIRE BUILDER - Adrian "Red" Stickney, founder and owner of Stickney's Restaurants and Bakeries, has built a successful empire within the past few years. Starting with his original location in Redwood City, "Red" saw his business prosper to a point where he now has locations as far south as Santa Clara. His Shirt Tail in Palo Alto is considered to be one of the most luxurious properties owned by Stickney Enterprises.

Weight-Conscious Favor the Shirt Tail

Weight-conscious Peninsulans aren't forgotten on the menu at the Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto. Char-broiled top sirloin steak, chopped tenderloin steak and prime rib of beef are delectable low-cal offerings. Coach Honored Marty Coil, former Giant farm hand and now Terra Nova's varsity baseball coach, has been named playermanager of the M & K Generals of the Edmonton Major Baseball League in Canada.

For Coil, whose Tigers took the NPL championship last year, the summer job is a plum, not only because he'll be playing baseball again, not only because it will mean a good extra income for he and his family, but because managing pros is something he's always wanted to try.

Actually, the league, a member of the National Baseball Congress, is only officially a semi-pro circuit, but it employs the best Canadian college players and former Canadian pros, and each team is allowed five "imports," who will undoubtedly be the best American collegians available, and/or ex-pros from this country. So it definitely will be a fast semi-pro league, probably on a par with some of the best American A leagues.

Coil is flattered because he didn't pursue the job, but in fact was pursued. He hadn't really been aware such an opening existed.

Marty, who will play any position where he thinks he'll be most needed (which could include any position but second, short and center field) is already talking about the National Baseball Congress finals in Wichita, Kansas, from which his league will send a representative.

to his league will send a representative.

The M & K Generals, for those who are interested in Pads Finish geography, are located in the town of Red Dear in Alberta, ans take baseball just about as seriously as they take Second to hockey, consider that Red Deer has a population of just under 20,000. Thus, a town less than two-thirds the size of Santa Clara Pacifica is supporting a fast semi-pro team.

WE DON'T, by the way, feel that Coil is being unrealistic when he talks about the National Baseball Congress finals. He's always been a winner, from his days as a Terra Nova student when he was all-league and most valuable player on three teams (baseball, football, basketball) and an honor student, right up to last year, when he led Terra Nova into that NPL baseball title. And if nothing else, we know Coil will make the people in Red Deer sorry to see him leave when summer's over. He never played on a professional team when the fans didn't vote him the team's most popular player.

It may be, in fact, that Terra Nova students and administrators will be hoping he doesn't do TOO well in Canada, because he's a popular teacher, too, who has made a reputation as an interesting and humorous history lecturer, and they want him back.

Coil is probably one of the few people in history who ever fulfilled a yearbook prophecy. His 1964 graduating class wrote of him. "Marty has been very active in school, especially in sports, where he has received many blocks. Although Marty hopes to become a history teacher, his greatest ambition is to be a pro baseball player.

Well, maybe that 1964 graduating class missed on one They might have added. "and pro baseball manager. WE DON'T OFTEN side with Charley Finley, but in the now notorious case of the "cheap" World Series rings. we must rally to his portion of the ring. (Pun intended). The money-grubbing attitude of many pro athletes especially, it seems, the A's — is to us appalling. Who EVER said that World Series rings had to necessarily be emperors' treasures? We always understood them to be symbols; symbols excellence. World Series rings should be worn with the pride of accomplishment, not the pride of monetary value.

What is important is not the fact that the 1972 ring may have cost $1,000 more than the 1973 ring, but that the Sal Bandos and Reggie Jacksons have the RIGHT to wear the We suppose that should Catfish Hunter ever win the Cy Young award, he would expect a solid gold, diamond encrusted trophy worth at least the price of a trade for a fleet of Rolls Royces.

It would be interesting to have appraised the wedding rings of the married Oakland A's.

PETE MARAVICH is one of the few great college players to have ever improved his field goal percentage in the pros. or so we discovered in a recent random survey we did of hot-shot college kids who have made it in pro ranks. Of course, Maravich, who scored 55 or more points in a single college game on 10 occasions and had a recordbreaking career average of 44.2 per game, doesn't score as prodigiously in the pros. but then he doesn't shoot as often. either. But when he does, as we said, he's slightly more

As a collegian. Maravich shot for a 43.8 percentage, as against his pro career average of 44.4. He's even improved his free throw shooting as a player-for-pay - 80.3 compared to his college average of 77.5

The only other two to ymprove in the pros in our random sampling have been Calvin Murphy (43.8 to 45.8), who has also improved his free throw shooting (84.9 to 86.2), and Wilt Chamberlain (47.0 to 54.0), although one can hardly say he "shot." Let's just say he stuffed better as a pro. His free throw shooting as a professional, however, dipped to 51.1. after a reasonable (for big men) 61.9 in college How others fared:

What the field goal stats probably tell us is that the progame, despite its super-stars, is a more team-oriented game than the college version, and almost surely indicate is that despite the scores in the century figures, the pros play a better brand of defense

What the free throw figures may mean is that players learn to concentrate better as pros. and or are cooler under pressure than they were as callow youths

SAM SNEAD made a comment recently that the main reason why he can still play respectably in big time tournament play is that his legs are so good.

'If guys like Ben Hogan could use golf carts." he said. "they'd still be on top.

Which is a thought. Why can't pro golfers use carts? Of course, then they would be thought less of as athletes than they are now, which is an image pro golf is continually

Survive The Week

College of San Mateo's fine pitching staff got through its first week of GGC play unscathed with a 7-4 win over CCSF Saturday afternoon on the hilltop.

Rudy Castellanos, out of El Camino High, led the Bulldog attack, banging home four runs with a 400-foot, three-run home run blast and a single.

CSM (3-0) staked pitcher Gavin Long to a 5-1 lead, but CCSF came back to 5-4 in the sixth. The Dogs got Long two more runs in the next inning and they coasted home from there.

Long struck out nine and walked only three in going the distance. Coach John Noce described Long's performance as spotty.

'He had a three-hit streak and four-hit streak that gave him trouble, but he was tough in the clutch. Once again CSM played good defense, but base-running blunders cost them more possible runs.

SM County Gains Probation Subsidies

By DUANE SANDUL

San Mateo County receives housands of dollars in subsilies from the state for not sending criminals to prison. Instead, many defendants acing a long stint behind prison bars are placed on probation, generally after serving some time in county ail, and closely supervised by probation officers. The plan is part of the state's probation subsidy program, which puts money n the county's coffers if less han a determined number of persons are imprisoned each iscal vear

The state set figure for San Mateo County for the period of last July 1 to June 30 is about 240. According to Probation Supervisor Ronald Brothers, the county will end less than half that number to adult and youth authorities.

Like many state programs, there are ingredients which make explanations complicated. That's because he county's only "charged" owards its "quota" for persons sentenced to prison who are not parole violators.

Thus, for the months of August through February. he county sent 64 persons to rison, 20 of whom were parole or probation viola-

Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan, who sentences nost of the convicted crimiaals in San Mateo County says that the subsidy program doesn't change his decisions on sentence.

In fact, Ragan confessed I don't really understand he program.

But Brothers does. He says the public might nisunderstand it if they simply believe that "risks" are being released into the

The soothing addition, he says, is that specially trained probation officers are supervising the probationers, keeping close tabs on their whereabouts, and huddling with them once a week or more for counseling.

Brothers states that San Mateo County's experience in the program, renewed last July after a three-plus year free from it, has been "good with only one case revoked from probation for a violation and sent to prison

Clairvoyance Treated as a Potboiler

THE MARQUEE

By Barbara Bladen

It's often thought and said to be shallow and unintellectual to expect a film to make sense. Some people are turned on by enigmatic films and others like a beginning, middle and an end.

I don't even ask that much. But I do prefer (as personal a taste as liking either sour cream or butter on one's baked potato and nothing deeper than that) a film that makes sense. Red herrings that lead nowhere and only serve to confuse and irritate the viewer are my idea of sloppy filmmakhim appear normal and at the same time as bizarre and unbalanced as anyone you'd care to know, the trickery of the plot leaves one hanging on a limb once too often. I started asking too many unanswerable questions as the blind alleys began to but "bogey man" stuff mount up.

There's no question as to directorial hand long before boiler.

play up Grey's spellbinding projection of a man with a sixth sense" while making me the feeling they'd pasted the possible endings together like a pair of puzzles called "Instant Scare" whose pieces would never fit together.

It's playing now on the Peninsula. Occult films never come off as anything Clairvoyance hasn't been over-explored as a literary subject and deserves a more Grey's stellar portrayal. But subtle treatment than this Frank Perry played out his clearly commercial pot-

Jogging--Fast Start Means Fast Finish

Bv DICK DRAPER Post Sports Writer

Whether you subsist on a strict Euell Gibbons diet of bush cranberry frappe and milkweed souffle or not, getting back to nature can be quite an ordeal.

Like jogging. Ah, the great out-of-doors where you can stretch those

ning Commission finally approved the Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the proposed Nutter Ranch Development last week. Commissioner Bradford Pringle emphasized, however, that "approved of the EIR does not mean we are accepting the project. Before there would be one grain of sand turned on be some proof from the developer that things such as the sewer problem would be corrected," he said.

The commission had requested more complete information on the adequacy of the sewage collection system in the Crespi Drive area before the EIR could be certified.

Tom Nance, assistant director of public works. said "It has been determined that a substantial amount of work would be necessary" to study the problem.

It has been suggested that the two manholes on Crespi, west of Peralta Road, be connected to alleviate the surcharge." Nance

"It will be hard to deter-involved and we just don't have the time or the manpower

Nance added that since the city does not have the expertise, we may have to go to another source; possibly call in a consultant to make In reference to the archeological possibilities of the land. Planning Administrator Jim Miller said reviewing what we have found, archeology should be given consideration." He indicated, however, that excavation would not be mandatory prior to development. Deputy City Attorney Bill

Galston noted that. apparently, this project is not one requiring such a mine if this will work. It study." despite requests depends on the available from local citizens and the Apathy on Flood Control?

By JACK BIK Residents of the lower

Linda Mar area in Pacifica want the Army Corps of Engineers to do two seemingly contradictory things in its million-dollar Pedro Creek Flood Control Project: Protect their homes

from flooding.

Keep the creek in its natural state, as much as possible. At least, that is how it appeared at Thursday night's public meeting held by the San Pedro Creek Flood Abatement Committee at Vallemar School.

Purpose of the meeting was to enable the Army Corps to determine a project that would satisfy residents. so as to avoid future criticism. Unfortunately, the Army Corps was handicapped in its effort by lack of persons at the meeting (only 62) and lack of replies to a questionnaire the city had sent out. The questionnaire, in which residents were asked flood control of the creek. was sent to over 500 resianother public meeting in posed.

safety of children.

Interest was expressed in wire netting filled with rocks coupled with land use control and secured to the bank. If put up correctly, it protects heavy waters, and has a County Board of Supervisors explained. Also favored was replacement of several bridges over the creek, which residents thought acted as dams. This, however, would have to be done at city expense. Tide gates at the mouth were also suggested.

Simply cleaning debris out of the creek would alleviate the flooding situation, some residents said.

There were several comtheir particular concerns in plaints about how storm sewers in Linda Mar fed into the creek - incuding those dents. Only 30 to 40 persons of the new Park Pacifica have returned the forms to subdivision. A separate the city. There will be drainage system was pro-

Policeman Shoots Self

A 27-year-old South San Francisco police officer suffered a compound fracture of the right leg Monday afternoon while his service revolver when from his belt as he was getting out of his station wagon and discharged when it hit the pavement, Redwood City Police reported today.

Officer Althous B. Croswell told Redwood City Patrolman J. M. Allerd he had arrived home after shopping and parked his vehicle in his driveway. He said he released the safety belt and picked up several packages from the seat and slid out when he heard a gun discharge. He reported he did not realize what had happened, however, until he took several steps

Allerd reported Croswell's 38 caliber revolver apparently worked loose from between his trousers, belt

Pacifica Woman Dies

The hanged body of a Northern California woman who had been arrested by the Nevada Highway Patrol was found last week in her cell at the Washoe County Jail.

The victim was Marian T. Hopping, 55, of Pacifica and her body was found hanging by a bedsheet. She had been arrested for investigation into drunken and reckless driving.

Drug Arrest

Daly City detectives aided by federal and state narcotics agents arrested Alfonso Vargas Jr., 26, at his Alta Vista Ave. home March 4 and charged him with possession and sale of heroin.

Detective John Kirby, in making the announcement, said some $4,000 in heroin and nine guns - rifles and shotguns — were confiscated in the raid which culminated some two months of intensive investigation
